

ZOE M. SIMPSON, Ed.D.

PROFILE

Zoe is a lifelong learner who believes that education is a reliable vehicle that transports individuals out of poverty.

Her post-secondary educational journey would have seen her completing studies in:
Teacher Education at:

- Teacher Education, at Shortwood Teachers College
- Theology, at Jamaica Theological Seminary
- Management Studies, at Jamaica Institute of Management
- Psychology, at Caribbean Graduate School of Theology
- Education, at the University of Sheffield, England

Zoe considers her life mission to be that of positioning the next generation to identify, and realize purpose for their lives. She presently serves as the Executive Director at the Women's Centre of Jamaica Foundation where adolescent mothers are presented with the opportunity to continue their education during the period of their pregnancy.

As a lifelong learner, Zoe has plans to pursue skills training in photography, and plumbing repairs. She is driven by the philosophy that we should all truly live before we die.
